
National Transit Institute - Latest Training Offerings

The National Transit Institute (NTI) continues to expand its portfolio of training courses for virtual delivery. Introduction to Transit Service Planning, offered monthly, seeks to enable participants to understand the public transit service planning process from concept design through service implementation and service evaluation. Also, a new, yet-to-be-titled, four-hour diversity course is being developed and is expected to be launched soon.

In support of FTA's Enhanced Transit Safety and Crime Prevention Initiative, FTA's Safety & Oversight Office collaborated with NTI to offer training on transit operator assault awareness and prevention and transit workplace violence. For more information on these courses, visit the website or contact FTASystemSafety@dot.gov.

NTI continues to provide virtual presentations and Zoom training to its instructors, including a four-hour instructor training curriculum and a four-hour Zoom Coordinator training curriculum for new coordinators of NTI virtual training sessions.
