Prevention: Labor & Sex

Not on my bus. Not on my train. Not in my community.

How transit agencies and associations are using FTA resources

Labor Trafficking

Forced labor is a situation in which victims are forced to work against their own will, under the threat of violence or some other form of punishment, their freedom is restricted, and a degree of ownership is exerted.

Sex Trafficking

Individuals are compelled to engage in commercial sex through the use of force, fraud, or coercion. When a person under 18 years old is induced to perform a commercial sex act, it is a crime regardless of whether there is any force, fraud, or coercion.

What Can We Do?

Get Educated

One of the first steps to combatting all forms of human trafficking is to learn what it is and how you may get exposed to it in your work environment.

Know Your Policies

Ask your transit agency, company or organization about internal policies about reporting signs of human trafficking before it happens.

Carry Wallet Card

Utilize tools that can provide immediate guidance if you suspect signs of human trafficking.

Ask Questions

If you are unsure about reporting about signs of human trafficking, ask questions to your human resources department or supervisor.

Say Something

“If you see something, say something.” If you suspect human trafficking, follow reporting policies to call 911, the National Hotline, or tell a supervisor.

Notice Details

Provide as many details as you can regarding the situation but do not engage the trafficker, which could put the victim and you in danger.

The industry you represent Public Transportation

PART 1

What have you seen in your community?

A young female, who was reported as a runaway, rides our bus frequently. Sometimes question her actions.

How would you report?

Report to PD when on our bus for runaway status.
888-373-7888 for human trafficking.

How does your industry intersect with aspects of human trafficking?

Continue to monitor actions of people and report to 888-373-7888 if human trafficking suspected.

The ROC is Rolling in Oklahoma! - Andrea Ball

The Rolling Oklahoma Classroom (ROC) takes hands-on training to transit workers and passengers on human trafficking awareness, transit safety, and security training into rural, urban, and tribal communities.

www.OKTransit.org/roc

The ROC is Going Places!

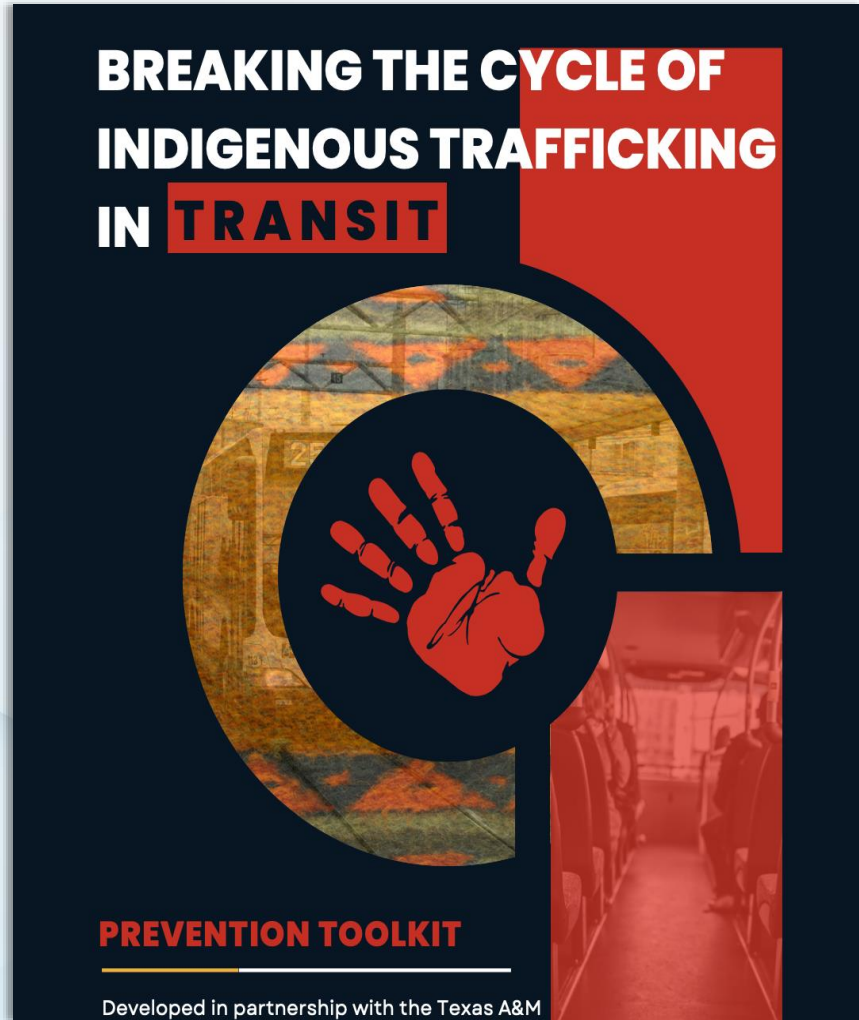

- The Rolling Oklahoma Classroom is available to every transit agency, tribal nation, educational institution, and community event in Oklahoma by request and at no cost. It has traveled statewide, and we've connected with thousands of people.
- We provide transit worker training, as well as passenger awareness of human trafficking situations and transit safety.
- An additional benefit of the bus is that we have also created a strong media awareness at our events. We have exhibited at the Oklahoma Capitol and given tours to Oklahoma Leaders, including Governor J. Kevin Stitt, OK Secretary of Transportation, Timothy Gatz, and FTA Administrator, Nuria Fernandez, as well as many state legislators.

ROC Tribal Highlights & Additional Resources

The ROC was made possible by Public and Private Partnerships and an FTA Grant

The project is made possible through strong public and private partnerships that includes a $350,475 grant from the Federal Transit Administration, as well as matching funds from state organizations and private business, and several other stakeholders, including Kristen Joyner of KJ Backpack who was the vision behind this project.
