The screenshot shows the Adobe Connect interface for a webinar. On the left, there are three panels: 'Web Links', 'Poll questions will be displayed here', and 'Q & A'. Each panel is highlighted with a colored border (orange, green, and red respectively) and has an arrow pointing to it from the right. The main content area displays a slide with the FTA logo and the title 'Public Transportation Safety Program Final Rule Webinar'. The slide also lists speakers: Brian Alberts, Office of Transit Safety and Oversight, and Candace Key, Office of Chief Counsel. At the bottom of the slide is the U.S. Department of Transportation Federal Transit Administration logo.

- Proposed contents of a National Public Transportation Safety Plan

Summary of Public Comments

- NPRM published on August 14, 2015, for 60 day comment period
- Received 118 unique comment submissions
- Comments of note:
 - Cost of rule to regulated community
 - Scalability/burden of SMS
 - Reasonable time and manner
 - Coordination between FTA and State Safety Oversight Agencies (SSOAs)

Poll Question

Summary of Major Changes

- Clarified definitions
- Added issuance of restrictions and prohibitions to the list of authorities (FAST Act)
- Replaced specific FTA advance notification requirements with more general language
- Removed 30-day timeframe for recipients to comply with FTA requests for records
- Added that FTA may withhold not more than 25% of a recipient's Urbanized Area Formula funds (FAST Act)

Summary of Major Changes

- Clarified that general directives are not used for emergency situations and don't require immediate compliance upon notice in the Federal Register
- Revised to provide the Administrator with the authority to review petitions for reconsideration of special directives
- Removed language which proposed that FTA would take compliance with advisories into consideration when considering other enforcement actions
- Added operational standards to the contents of a National Safety Plan
